

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Welcome to the February edition of the Sussex Law Society Newsletter which I hope finds you well.

A lot of people often find January a bit of gloomy month recovering from the excesses of the festive period in December and embarking on new year's resolutions (which they may or may not complete). It therefore filled me with utter joy to be able to open the University of Chichester's Law Careers Conference 2024 on 31st January as a keynote speaker. We discussed the socio-economic barriers to entry into the legal profession, my journey into law and experience of working in both public and private practice and why I took on the Sussex Law Society Presidency. I was thrilled to meet the students and other professionals and delighted to receive some positive feedback from lecturers saying my words resonated with so many students.

After piloting a virtual 'President's Surgery' last month, I will be looking to hold another in the next few months and details will follow. As a reminder, it is an opportunity for members to raise any issues or concerns which the Sussex Law Society might be able to help with.

At the Burning the Clocks event in December, I met a delightful master's graduate who is looking to secure a paralegal position to part fulfil the qualifying work experience criteria for the SQE. If you can help in any way, please contact Navraj Manku directly (contact details on his CV here)

The Spring Quiz is now sold out and we have a waiting list! This is amazing so thank you to all members and to 1 Crown Office Row for sponsoring this event. If you have any ideas for other events you would like to see the SLS host/organise, please do contact Jeanette Lacy Scott.

In other news, January saw a fantastic result in the High Court as Lord Justice Singh and Mr Justice Jay ruled in favour of the Law Society following its judicial review against the government. Their judgment confirmed the government's decision-making on criminal legal aid funding was irrational. This will be welcome news to many of our members but only time will tell whether it can stop, in the words of Nick Emmerson, president of the Law Society "the exodus of duty solicitors from the profession". ### ALERT!! CARD TESTING FRAUD

We have been advised that a number of members of the Sussex Law Society have experienced card testing fraud. In summary, stolen credit cards are being tested through the payment facilities offered on solicitors' websites i.e., "payment facilities for invoices". It is believed that stolen credit card details are repeatedly put through automatically by "BOTS" so that cards can be tested to ascertain whether they have been reported stolen or not and deactivated. If not deactivated, they are used for subsequent fraudulent transactions. Small amounts are put through usually in the region of £1 - £2. Solicitors have to take steps to refund any money received. It appears to be predominantly American credit card details.

The problem can be rectified by taking down that payment facility on the solicitor's website for a minimum of about 24 hours. Heightened security may be needed on this payment facility such as setting up a capture facility which is when a client has to tick pictures which identify a set item (i.e., to test if you are a robot) or giving access codes to those who have been sent invoices.

Members should also be aware of 'charge back fraud' which is when small amounts are paid into the client account for an alleged service, a refund is then requested together with costs and fees.

CALL FOR EVIDENCE ON LOCAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE BOARDS

In January 2024, the Ministry of Justice launched a Call for Evidence on Local Criminal Justice Boards to better understand the challenges that they face and how they can best be supported. If you are practicing criminal law or supporting local legal practitioners who do, please consider responding to the Ministry of Justice by 23 February 2024: You can access the consultation here.

It is important that the views of the whole of the local criminal justice system and associated sectors are reflected in this Call for Evidence and the Ministry of Justice have said that they are keen to hear from defence representatives and the legal community.

COMPLIANCE AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Whilst remaining “interested” in CILEX paralegals and students being included in the next stage of its work towards assuming oversight of the Legal Executive profession, the SRA has indicated that further work and another Consultation is needed upon this question, one of many raised by CILEX members as they now seek further details and assurances. It affects about two thirds of a 20,000 membership who are not “Authorised Persons” under the Legal Services Act 2007. There is no precise time scale for this proposed second consultation.

COUNCIL MEMBER’S REPORT

Judicial Review

The Law Society, with the Criminal Law Solicitors Association and London Criminal Courts Solicitors Association as interested parties, has won a Judicial Review of the Government’s failure to implement the full 15% legal aid fee increase recommended by Lord Bellamy in November 2021. This was a significant intervention by the Law Society at a significant financial risk in terms of costs. For Criminal practitioners it was great to see our representative bodies standing up for us. The Judgment backed up what Criminal Lawyers have been saying for years:

“Unless there are significant injections of funding in the relatively near future, any prediction along the lines that the system will arrive in due course at a point of collapse is not overly pessimistic”. And recognition of the work done by “women and men working up and down the country at all hours of the day and night, in difficult and stressful circumstances, carrying out an essential service which depends to a large extent on their goodwill and sense of public duty”.

The Judgment might have wider implications for others. There is currently a Civil Legal Aid Review underway. The Government would be very foolish to ignore recommendations from that review, knowing the Law Society will be emboldened to take them to Court if their response is deemed unlawful.

Special Council Meeting

There was a special Law Society Council meeting on 31st January 2024. The sole topic of discussion was the building 60 Carey Street, London and whether this should be kept and refurbished or sold. This building is around the corner from the main Law Society building at 113 Chancery Lane. The original building dates from 1731 and is Grade II listed and has been owned by the Law Society since 1930. There have been many extensions over the centuries. It is an impressive 3 storey building and includes reception rooms, a formal dining room, a domed “court room”, previously used by the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal, and a flat for use of the President. The building is in need of refurbishment and also some significant works to make it fully accessible, including the possible installation of a lift and disabled access from street level. As a listed building there are some development constraints.

The competing arguments can be summarised as follows:-

- For keeping it: This is a “heritage asset” that can be used to host those such as Government ministers and foreign Bar leaders in an informal setting and so allow the Law Society to exercise “soft power” with influential people. It provides accommodation for the President close to Chancery Lane. Some impressive spaces like the Court room can be used for meetings and conferences. When it is gone it is gone and it should be refurbished.
- Against keeping it: It will cost a significant 7 figure sum to bring it up to modern standards and make it fully accessible. Chancery Lane can be used for meetings. Accommodation for the President could be found either with hotel accommodation or the purchase of a flat. It can be sold and the money invested in the Society investment portfolio.

The current president is keen to resolve this issue this year. There will be a further report by the main board and Council will vote on the matter at a meeting in March. I appreciate that many of you will never have been to this building and may not have known of its existence. However, you fund the Law Society and as your representative I have a vote on this issue. My current view is to keep and refurbish it but I would be happy to hear any representations from others to my e-mail address below.
